Export Control Screening

West Texas A&M University is committed to export control compliance and it is the policy of West Texas A&M University to comply with United States export control laws and regulations. As such, WTAMU employees are required to participate in Export Control Screening as a part of the approval process to travel to a foreign country for University business. Compliance with export control regulations is an individual responsibility and non-compliance may lead to individual as well as institutional liability.

The checklist below is used to identify potential export control issues that may be associated with the planned travel. Send the completed form to exportcontrol@wtamu.edu for Export Control guidance prior to the trip. If you mark any of the below boxes "yes" or "unknown" include explanatory information in your email. Screening of the travel form cannot be guaranteed if submitted later than ten (10) working days prior to departure.

If you are traveling to an embargoed or sanctioned country or if your travel may involve controlled subject matter or equipment, a license may be required. Please allow at least three (3) months in cases where a license may be required to allow for preparation, submission, and receipt of a license if approved.

A license may be required depending on items taken during travel, which countries are visited, or whether defense services are provided to a foreign person. Items that are not needed should not be taken.

Consult with IT Senior Security Analyst, Lane Greene, (651-1240) if you are considering taking a laptop with encryption software or sensitive data. You can arrange for a "clean laptop" if needed. This is a laptop that does not include any export-restricted hardware, software, data, or information.

*Please Note: Once outside of the U.S. or upon your return to the U.S., your laptop may be subject to search or it may be seized without probable cause, suspicion, or warrant. If you don't need it – don't take it with you.

Additional Information Regarding Export Control

Please be advised: Once outside of the U.S. or upon your return to the U.S., your laptop may be subject to search or it may be seized without probable cause, suspicion, or warrant. If you don't need it – don't take it with you.

Consult with IT Senior Security Analyst, Lane Greene, (806-651-1240) if you are considering taking encrypted software or sensitive data. You can arrange for a "clean laptop" if needed. This is a laptop that does not include any export-restricted hardware, software, data or information.

Note 1-Tools of Trade: If personal computers and other storage devices are taken abroad that contain encrypted software, a government license or other government approval for export may be required when traveling to certain countries. Temporary exports under the "Tools of Trade" license exception apply when the laptop, PDA, cell phone, data storage devices, and encrypted software are:

1. Hand-carried with the individual while traveling
2. Carried in the luggage or baggage that travels with the individual, or
3. Shipped no more than thirty (30) days prior to the individual's departure or shipped to the individual at any time while the individual is outside the country.

Generally, so long as an individual (1) retains his/her laptop computer, PDA, cell phone, data storage devices and encrypted software under their personal custody and effective control for the duration of travel; (2) does not intend to keep these items outside the U.S. for longer than 1 year; and (3) the individual is not traveling to an embargoed country, no government export license is required. For current list of embargoed destinations see: https://www.treasury.gov/resource-center/sanctions/Programs/Pages/Programs.aspx (This exemption is not available for equipment, components, or software designed for use in/by/with most satellites or spacecraft.) "Effective Control" means retaining physical possession of an item or maintaining it in a secure environment.

Note 2-Public Domain and Fundamental Research: Most travel for conferences will fall under an exclusion to the export control regulations, e.g., the Publicly Available/Public Domain Exclusion, 22 CFR 120.11 and 15 CFR 734.3. Information that is published and is generally accessible to the public through publication in books or periodicals available in a public library or in bookstores or information that is presented at a conference, meeting, seminar, trade show, or other open gathering is considered to be in the public domain. An "open gathering" is one in which members of the general public are eligible to attend, and attendees are permitted to take notes.
