CORNETTE LIBRARY COURSE RESERVE GUIDELINES

1. Cornette Library’s Course Reserves, both hard copy and electronic, may include, at the most, one or two articles from a journal issue, or one or two chapters from a book. Additionally, it is acceptable to copy a poem. Fair Use does not allow for copying sections of works that make up a substantial portion of the work as a whole (this proportion is considered to be 15% or more).

2. Course Reserves will only include items that are lawfully obtained either by the library or the instructor requesting the item. Lawfully obtained is defined as anything that is either purchased, or obtained by way of the Fair Use provisions.

3. The proportion of materials placed on Course Reserves should be small in relation to materials used for the course overall.

4. Items to be repeatedly placed on Course Reserve for the same instructor and the same course will require copyright permission from the publisher. Similarly, items used by multiple instructors will require copyright permission or purchase of the item.

Based upon the fair use considerations listed above, I have determined that my use of the submitted materials meets the fair use provisions of the copyright law.

I declare that I have read Cornette Library’s Course Reserve Guidelines and the items that I have submitted fall within the restrictions discussed in numbers 1-4 of these guidelines.

I further understand that if I have intentionally falsified information on this form, or if my determination of fair use was not made in good faith, I may be subject to personal liability for copyright infringement.

The Cornette Library is not liable for the loss and/or damage of personal copies; however, the library staff will contact the patron concerning replacement charges, which are consistent with library fine policies.
