

Beth Duke, Executive Director Center City – Amarillo

This has been in the works almost five years, and when they read it, it's a good thing we began work early. We found it took a lot more research than anyone thought.

Jodi Thomas, Writer-in-Residence, WTAMU

I was here when this began, I was part of the committee, I didn't do any of the work – Marty did all the work, he's great. I think we have something we can be proud of.

Sue Park, Professor Emeritus of English

I am delighted to see this finally printed, I think it's a beautiful book – pic scattered thru. My role in putting the book together was not very significant, I just did the English teacher thing and checked punctuation, spelling, names, things like that. I think Marty has done a great job.

J. Pat Stephens, Professor Emeritus of Political Science

My role in this proj, was to be one of the many readers – to look at the book, with recommendations, to help Marty any way we could. I've seen so much of this that I lived through it. It's kind of frightening to know I outlasted Brown Hall and the old football stadium.

Marty Kuhlman, Associate Professor of History/Author

It's a good book because of the stories, because of what the alumni did for 100 years – what stud did, the professors, the administration, things like that. That's what makes it so important; everyone was so helpful with this – with stories and things like that. I think that's what's going to make this, make the centennial.
