

EDITORS

KALI DENNIS is majoring in English with a minor in Philosophy, and graduates from WTAMU in May 2021. An avid reader, she enjoys the writings of Julio Cortazar, Walt Whitman, and Michael Bond. In her spare time, she draws and writes, and enjoys movies and anime.

JONAH DIETZ is an English major with a minor in Creative Writing and will graduate in 2021. The works of Douglas Adams pulled him into the joys of creative writing; he has also treasured Norton Juster's The Phantom Tollbooth, as well as the works of C. S. Lewis. After graduation, he will continue his devotion to independent and popular film and will work on writing cult films and supporting his wife, who loves and works in theater and the stage.

AIMEE KENDALL is an English major at WTAMU and will graduate in spring 2021. Some of her favored writers and works include The Little Prince, by Antoine de Saint-Exupéry, The Tenant of Wildfell Hall, by Anne Brontë, and Little Women, by Louisa May Alcott. After graduation, she would like to pursue a job in editing or publishing. Her outside interests include sewing and quilting, 1960s fashion and furniture, and powerlifting.

BONNEY MACDONALD is a Professor of English at West Texas A&M University, with a focus on nineteenth-century American literature and literature of the American West. She received a B.A. from California State University, Sacramento; M.A. from University of Nottingham, England; and Ph.D. from Yale University. She is an active horsewoman and lives between Canyon, Texas and her husband's ranch in Colorado.

CONTRIBUTORS

CAITLIN BARTZ is a senior at WTAMU and is majoring in English, with minors in Creative Writing and Communications Studies. In her free time, she enjoys writing poetry, participating with Speech and Debate, and spending time with her three cats.

E. PAIGE CLEMENTS graduated from WTAMU with a B.A. in English in spring 2020, and she is currently working towards her M.A. in English at WTAMU. Outside of school, she enjoys time with her horses, dogs, and cats, and she considers herself the epitome of a pet parent. She also loves being a student advocate in higher education and working in student support roles to help at-risk or underprivileged college students succeed and learn to love higher education despite their hardships.

JONATHON CRUMP graduated from WTAMU in 2019 with a major in English and a minor in Philosophy. He is currently pursuing a Masters of Divinity in Biblical Counseling at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. His interests include music, film, and nineteenth-century literature.

MADLYN ROSE HAGAN majored in English at WT and graduated in December 2020 and is now working as a pre-school teacher. Her outside interests include Dungeons and Dragons as well as writing short fiction.

EMILY KIKER graduated with a BA in English in December 2020. During college, she worked at Chick-Fil-A, but will be looking for a job in editing. She enjoys reading and coming up with creative stories. She has written a children's book as well as poems and short stories, and she plans to send them to a publisher this year.

ROMAN LEAL graduated from WTAMU in 2019 with a B.A. in English and a minor in Philosophy. He is currently a J.D. Candidate at Yale Law School and will graduate in 2022. Roman focuses on the intersection of constitutional law and emerging technologies. He is an Editor at the Yale Law Journal and a Student Fellow at the Information Society Project.

MARIANA ERIDANI GUTIERREZ-LOWE graduated from WTAMU in 2019 with a B.A. in English and a minor in Creative Writing. She is currently in her second year of the English Ph.D. program at Northwestern University. Her research interests include Latinx literature, Indigenous studies, feminism, borders and citizenship, decolonization, and motherhood.

MATTHEW MULLIN graduated from WTAMU in 2016 with a B.A. in English. He is currently in the first year of his doctoral studies at University of Notre Dame. His research interests include seventeenth-century British literature, English Civil-War-period history and literature, and Early Modern narratives of disability. Outside of his studies, he enjoys time with his wife and four-year-old son, as well as basketball, golf, and fantasy football.

MADISON C. NATION graduated from WTAMU with a B.A. in English in spring 2020. She is currently enrolled in the English M.A. Program at WTAMU and plans to graduate in 2022. She is currently working at the Amarillo Public Library.

